

So... It's The System

By CS Bennett

The left consistently rail against what they call systemic racism, as though there is some sacred document, or instructions, in every municipality to guides those in power, mainly White Supremist, on how to keep Blacks and other minorities from advancing in our society. They would have you believe that the odds are stacked wholesale against the common man, especially those of color. This nefarious plot can be uncovered in the workforce, politics, our communities, our culture and worldview, they say. But where is the empirical evidence?. Yet, institutionalized racism and white privilege are terms that are bantered about. Discrimination, a lack of diversity, more affirmative action, a demand for social justice, are misnomers in their usage to describe, and promote, crimes against Blacks and other minorities.

Though there are people who hold racist beliefs, and discrimination is never going to go away completely, there are no statistics to substantiate these widespread claims. None! Most people have heard of these claims but have never seen any proof of it. But is this true? Can we really be a racist nation? Personally, I believe there is racism that is institutionalized and widespread in our nation. Matter-of-fact, I know it. However, it is not in the same context, or form, of what we normally hear from the left. As someone seeing this from the right side of the aisle, I can confidently say that there is systemic racism, and ill will, in our society. Not only does it exist, but it is being taught right under our noses. Welcome to our government run schools and universities.

Our young are being taught to find fault and shame in their country. They are being taught to despise and hate their country. They are being taught to disregard western beliefs and norms. Leading the charge are Marxist and socialist-minded teachers. In the minds of these malcontents, George Washington, Thomas Jefferson, and other founding fathers were racists and built this country on the backs of Blacks and other minorities. They proclaim that America was never meant for the Black man, only for whites. Their heroes are Ernesto "Che" Guevara, Fidel Castro, the Black Panthers, Vladimir Lenin, Marcus Garvey, and Karl Marx. Most of them live quite well, and have great jobs as educators, but they travel around this country with a chip on their shoulder.

I have looked closely at the curriculum of our government run schools and universities, and they have an overall anti-Western, anti-American, and anti-white theme. They teach their students to look at, and contrast, the world through the lens of an African worldview and a European worldview. What they say about Africa is favorable and morally uplifting; in effect they practice collectivism, are spiritual-minded, are interconnected, and they are in harmony with nature. They teach that Europe is the opposite. They say Europeans have a survival thrust of alienation, individualism, materialism, control over nature, aggression-violence, and White/Eurasian supremacy domination, and are anti-Africaness. And this is coming from a psychology class. You do not want to know what is being said in their Race-Ethnicity classes.

With the recent events of violent protest and rioting in our democrat controlled urban areas, alarm bells should be going off all across the fruited plains. We must change our school curriculum and the only way to do that is to reelect Donald J. Trump. Bringing down the current left-wing bias in our educational system must be a priority. The president go after, and gut out, the Left's socialist-Marxist materials from our schools, much like President Grant did when he went after the KKK with a vengeance. Only then will we have a fighting chance to restore this republic to its original greatness. This I truly believe... And this I am willing to die for... It may sound quirky but this land belongs to you and me...
